

How much does a ring solar Pathlight cost?

The Ring Solar Pathlight is everything we loved about last year's Ring Pathlight, minus the need to buy lots and lots of disposable batteries. $34.99 (single light) The solar version of the Ring Smart Lighting Pathlight eliminates the number-one reservation I had about the original version: The lifespan of its four D-cell batteries.

What is the Ring Solar Pathlight?

The Ring Solar Pathlight is a smart way to illuminate your walk. Tom's Guide reviews and tests products to help you make informed decisions. The Ring Solar Pathlight is one such product that costs a certain amount.

How do you charge a ring solar Pathlight?

A photovoltaic panel occupying nearly the entirety of the Ring Solar Pathlight's 3.5-inch top trickle-charges a 3.7-volt lithium ion battery inside. If you don't get enough sunlight to keep the battery charged, you can detach the top of the light and bring it inside to charge with a micro-USB cable.

How bright is a Pathlight solar?

The Pathlight Solar certainly looks brighter than the first-gen product, but Ring says both devices generate a modest 80 lumen of brightness--sufficient to cast a circular pool of light about eight feet in diameter (the light can be dimmed, if so desired). Their light is also the same color temperature: A cool 3500K.

How does the Pathlight solar work?

As with the original Pathlight, the Pathlight Solar connects to your Wi-Fi network (2.4GHz only) via either a Ring Bridge or a component that has an integrated bridge (that component can be a Ring Alarm Pro Base Station, an Echo (4th Gen), or an Echo Show 10 (3rd Gen)). If you have a bridge, the Pathlights are available on their own for $35 each.

Are solar pathlights effective?
